
BOOK REVIEW

Chick and Duckling's adventures continue, this time into the sugar bush, in Tapping For Sap, the 6th book in the Railfence Bunch series.

Ride along in a sleigh with Chick and Duckling to the sugar bush to experience making maple syrup the old-fashioned way. From tapping the spile into the tree, to boiling the sap in big kettles over the fire. They enjoy the whole process of syrup making; the old-fashion way!

Drawing on her agricultural roots, Morris has done it again, using her classic style of rhyme and repetition, combined with Richard McNaughton's delightful illustrations, to bring the sugar bush to her readers in a fun and factual way.

Tapping For Sap is a "sweet" read for all young readers!
